Alert:
You will need an AAC system during today's webinar

Today's Webinar

- * Explore why and how we can support emergent AAC users to participate in the general education curriculum

General education classrooms

- * ~ 1 in 10 students with Angelman spends the day in a regular classroom
- * ~ 6 in 10 students spend a significant portion of their day in the regular classroom
- * Most students join a regular classroom for "specials" rather than the general curriculum

Today's webinar in the 5 STEPS

Targets	Language development versus content mastery
Teaching	Creating access to the language and ideas of the curriculum
Tools	Robust AAC
Testing	Student response
Team

What is the purpose of the general curriculum?

What is the purpose of the general curriculum?

- * Create a sense of national or social identity and history: our similarities

Does the general curriculum apply to our students?

- * Create a sense of national or social identity and history: our similarities
- * Establish a common baseline of knowledge and skills that we consider essential to participate and contribute as citizens
- * Make sense of our experiences and place in the world: learn how to answer our own questions

Strategies used in these units?

- ★ Peers modelled use of AAC to describe, define, and comment on unit vocabulary
- ★ Alphabet books of unit-specific vocabulary
- ★ Adapted books: electronic, video, Tar Heel Reader
- ★ Hands-on exploration: visited museum, watched videos

What did Maggie learn from these units?

- * How to access valuable language in her AAC
- * Deeper awareness of the alphabet
- * How to participate in the dialogue and ideas around her by producing a response
- * That there are similarities and differences in her own lived experiences and that of others

What do you remember learning about?

- * Ancient Greece?
- * The Civil War? World War II?
- * The Pythagorean theorem?
- * Shakespeare's Macbeth?

What if we had asked her:

- * "Show me the mummy"
- * "Point to Ruby Bridges"
- * "Touch the color black"
- * "Where is the letter B?"

What you remember can be predicted by whether you thought it mattered.

- * 40-60% of American high school students are disengaged from the content of their classrooms

Sir Kenneth Robinson

What is the most valuable for our students?

Power is what really matters

- * The power of language and a good story
- * The power of imagination
- * The power of individuals to make change
- * The power to explain our own experiences and relate to the experiences of others

Planning access to the general curriculum

1. Why does this idea matter? What is the “so what”?

What is the essential meaning of this unit?
What will students still remember in 20 years?

It's OK to skip a unit or lesson.

Your student's time is too valuable to waste.

The general curriculum is the application of language

- ★ How words tell our stories and share our ideas and experiences, even after we are dead or gone
- ★ How symbols (words, letters, visuals) are arranged and re-arranged
- ★ Why we communicate
- ★ Why words matter

General Curriculum

2. What language is needed for this idea?

Emphasize the words in AAC that we can use the most frequently.

Nouns only set the topic and can usually be represented visually.

Verbs and adjectives share and explore the idea.
